

About Cornell University Cooperative Extension

Cooperative Extension was created in 1914 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to "extend" the research from the landgrant university in each state to the people of that state. Today we are one of 57 county Extension Education Centers in New York State – all linked to Cornell University.

Our mission is to help people improve their lives and communities through educational partnerships that put research, knowledge and practical experience to work. We address current issues facing Rockland residents, focusing on the environment and community, youth and family development. Our information and advice is factual and unbiased.
